Here is my rendition of a optional rear hatch for barndoor. they are hard to come by for an original and i could hardly afford one if it came up for sale so i decided to build my own for installing on my personal bus i am restoring.

the dark blue one is owned by a friend and i got the opportunity to borrow it for a few weeks to use as a pattern.one of these days both will be installed and functional. i did happen to get my hands on the NOS mounting hardware for myself .i would think that might be harder to find than the hatch itself . i duplicated that as well so that i have a pattern for any future use down the road.
